If you're looking for a job, a new career or just want to update your resume and brush up on your interview skills, check out the Spring 2015 Job Fair later this month.

The Sutter County One Stop is organizing the bi-annual event, which is sponsored by local workforce agencies.

"We've been trying to do it twice a year, once in the spring and once in the fall, to hit the peak hiring times," said Jennie Archuleta, a business workforce specialist with Sutter County One Stop.

Positions are available in production, retail, law enforcement, transportation, health care, military, education, culinary arts and more.

"It's a great opportunity to connect with people face-to-face since most applications are online," Archuleta said. "It's also a great opportunity to sell your personality along with your skills."

Archuleta said they're still recruiting employers who are looking to hire employees to be a part of the job fair.

She added that job seekers should come prepared with all information needed to complete employment applications onsite and to bring plenty of copies of their resume to the event. People are encouraged to dress professionally and be ready for an interview.

Organizers ask that people do not bring their children to the event.
